Execution of Don Manuel G. Rejon, a

Matamores. We learn from a private letter, dated Browns ville, Texas, April 28, that on or about the 25th of lasmonth. Don Manuel G. Reion, late Secretary of State to Gov. Vidaurri, came to Brownsville, from Laredo or Roma, whither he had fied when with So long as he is satisfied with Gen. Butlaze Pairson. 19 Maine.

Issae Pairson. 19 Maine. Vidaurri also took to flight, and stopped at Miller's He tel, without reporting himself either at head marters of the 27th it came to the knowledge of the military that he was there, and be was at once, though he protested ros. It so me that he was one of those w dered by a decree of the Juarez Government to be shot as soon as apprehended, though that was not known to the military authorities in Brownsville when they put him across the Rio Grande; so on his arrival in Mata mores he was arrested, and at 2 o'clock on the after noon of April 28 he was shot by a file of soldiers, in the presence of a very large concourse of spectators. Sr. Rejon was a nephew of the Don Manuel Crescen of Subsistence of the District of North Carolina, vice cio Rejon, who, as Secretary of State of Mexico, give such a castigation to our Minister, Wilson Shannon and was the editor of "La Reviste." Though guilty o cumstances stated he met with his fate.

> His execution caused the greatest consternation among the Rebels in Matamoras, especially as they were aware that Sr. Iglesias, Juarez's Minister of Finance was in the city or on a visit to Brownsville at the time. Ignorant of the real facts of the case, and fully aware of the entente cordiale existing between the officers of the Paited States and the Juares Govern ment, they concluded that he was put across under s direct understanding, and began to feel the livelies' apprehensions for their own safety. Before night, al the vehicles that could be hired in Matamoros were freighted with Rebels for the interior. Since the fight between Cortina and Ruiz, no such exedus of Rebels has taken place. As they know that but for their Rebel lion. Mexico would never have been invaded, and as they have ever been in favor of the French, have they not just ground for apprehension? What other nation beside Mexico would have tolerated enemies in its
